Advice:

If the buyer is a consumer, he/she has the right, in the event he/she ordered goods using the Seller's e-shop or another remote communication means, with the exception of the cases stated in Section 1837 of Act No. 89/2012 Coll., the Civil Code, as amended, to withdraw from a purchase contract concluded within 14 days of the day of conclusion of the contract or, if it concerns the purchase of goods, within fourteen days of their acceptance. In the case of a contract whose subject is several pieces of goods or the delivery of several parts of goods, this period starts to run on the day of delivery of the last piece or part of the goods, and in the case of a contract based on which goods are to be delivered regularly and repeatedly, from the day of the first delivery.

The buyer will notify such withdrawal to the Seller in writing at the address of the Seller's premises or in electronic form sent to the Seller's e-mail address stated in this specimen form.

If a buyer that is a consumer withdraws from a purchase contract, it will hand over or send to the Seller without undue delay, but within no more than 14 days of withdrawal from the purchase contract the goods that it received from it, to the Seller's address stated in this specimen form.

If a buyer that is a consumer withdraws from a purchase contract, the Seller will return to him/her without undue delay, but within no more than 14 days of withdrawal from the purchase contract, all the money that it received from him/her based on the purchase contract (the purchase price for the goods delivered including any costs of packaging and delivery received) in the same manner. The Seller is not obligated to return the funds received to the buyer before it receives the goods or before the buyer proves that it sent the goods to the Seller. If the buyer withdraws from a purchase contract, the buyer bears the costs related to the return of the goods to the Seller, even in the event that he/she cannot return the goods the usual postal way due to their nature.
